CLASSIC COCKTAILS

THE BOULEVARDIER £13.95

In the 1920's. This upscale drink is the improved Variation on a Negroni, swapping gin for whiskey. The sweetness of bourbon perfectly balances the flavour rich flavour.

THE CORPSE REVIVER £14.95

An 1930's upscale cocktail with a humorous name: the strength of the drink was enough to bring a body back from the grave! This one is a fancy drink that's simple to make, and it always impresses guests. It's tart and zingy, with a hint of liquorice on the finish.

THE FRENCH MARTINI £13.95

An upscale spin on a vodka martini made with raspberry liqueur and pineapple juice. It might seem like a retro classic cocktail, but it was invented in the 1980's by New York bartender Allen Katz.

THE PEGU CLUB £13.95

A classic 1920's drink invented at, as the name suggests, the Pegu Club. This fancy drink is sophisticated and refreshing, with a citrus and herbal finish.

FRENCH 75 £13.95

The French 75 is a classic cocktail invented 1915 at the New York Bar in Paris It's tangy, bubbly, and makes every occasion more festive.

THE VESPER MARTINI £14.95

Here's an upscale drink invented by a fictional character. James Bond created this drink in the 1953 book Casino Royale, and it lives on today. The magic ingredient is Lillet Blanc, a lightly sweet, vaguely floral fortified wine that brings life and personality into this drink.

THE LAST WORD! £13.95

Here's an upscale drink for the adventurous, this pale green gin sour is a classic cocktail that was all but lost to history. But with the revival of cocktail culture, this one's come back strong. It's equal parts formula makes it easy to make and perfectly balanced.

GOLDEN CADILLAC £14.95

This pale yellow after dinner drink blows the drinker away with its creamy, complex flavour! The name sounds a bit 1950's, but this retro cocktail deserves a place among the greats.

WARD 8 £13.95

Ward 8, where the whiskey sour can be on the sweet side, the Ward 8 is perfectly balanced and tart. It features rye whiskey, but it's not overpowering there's just a hint of spice on the finish.

ESPRESSO MARTINI £13.95

This 1980's cocktail comprises bittersweet coffee which pairs perfectly with the rich sweetness of Kahlua and vodka and the trio makes a full-flavored sophisticated drink that's cool, frothy, and bittersweet.

BLUE HAWAII £13.95

This one is as classic 1950's as it gets. Both vodka and rum feature in this sweet tart drink, along with a secret ingredient that brings in its ocean-tinted colour. It was invented in 1957 by a bartender named Harry Yee in Waikiki, Hawaii.

PALOMA £13.95

Which translates to "dove" in Spanish. The history around the drink is a bit murky, though many believe it to have originated in the 1950's. Some attribute the drink to a legendary bartender in Tequila, Mexico, Don Javier Delgado Corona.

THE GODFATHER £14.95

A two-ingredient cocktail made with Scotch whiskey and amaretto. The Godfather became popular in the 1970's when cocktails were strong and sweet (and often included amaretto). It's believed to be named after the Godfather movie with Marlon Brando.

THE OLD FASHIONED £14.95

This cocktail gets its name because it started as literally the first cocktail. The definition of the word cocktail was first documented in 1806 in a New York paper The Balance and Columbian Repository, calling it a "concoction of spirits, bitters, water, and sugar." Once more cocktails came along in the 1880's, they needed a name for that original whiskey cocktail. The "Old Fashioned" was born.
